

The Urban Brain

Geez, it's been awhile

Posted on April 30, 2007

Okay. Okay... I admit I have been a bit of a slacker lately. With this beautiful weather and the touch of spring, plus overall business, it has been quite awhile since I have had a post.

But I see I have alot of company in this regard. With such beautiful weather all the patios are open and FULL, of happy socialites enjoying the end of the snow season. Zengo has opened up officially with their deck, Jax is always a great bet for outdoor sux and outers, and of course the other multitude of locations downtown.

So what is your favorite outdoor space. No survey for this one yet, just let the comments flow and the survey will follow after I know who to include. And enjoy your summer.

By the way, can you guess which nightclub this was taken in on Saturday night. Denver was going full steam this weekend and my brief journey out let me know that this city loves to party.

Cheers.